Report to the Community
2019–2020

Welcome to EBC's Report to the Community

2020 marked 30 years of service by EBC to children and families in our community. Looking back to 2019, the team at EBC worked hard to prepare us by reinforcing those things that make EBC a resilient organization. That resiliency was tested in 2020, as we faced the pandemic and resulting recession head on. It continues to be tested in 2021.

A more resilient EBC started with our goal of more accurately measuring its impact in the community, with EBC adopting its first Logic Model in 2019. Put simply, a logic model creates a roadmap for the agency to follow. It takes us from initial resources required—to the change we'd like to create for children and their families. Through the Logic Model, EBC is not only able to see the "ingredients" needed for change, but also create a recipe for that change. And positive, real change for children is what we are truly seeking to make our world a better place.

The adoption of our logic model, and subsequent Theory of Change, allowed us to enter 2020 prepared to face the newly uncertain world of the pandemic. Throughout the early months, EBC stayed open as an essential service, with volunteers, staff, providers and board working together to ensure that kids in our community had what they needed to thrive. Even with supply chain disruptions, quarantines, moving to a new remote work environment and more, EBC was able add new partners, distribution sites and address the emerging needs in the community.

Through adversity and challenge, EBC has continued to work to create positive change in the community for our vulnerable children. Change is wonderful, but how do we know we're making change—how do we measure it? At EBC we measure change by analyzing our provider partners observations; the folks on the ground with daily contact with the children and families. Our very first evaluation survey, completed in late 2019, provided us with evidence that EBC is making a very real difference. For example, 77% of our providers agree that receiving goods from EBC improve health outcomes for their clients, 93% confirmed that EBC helps create stronger bonds with their clients, and 90% agreed that goods from EBC help their clients become better equipped to handle stressful situations. Working together, EBC is helping our providers make families stronger, more resilient and better equipped to create the future they desire.

As we observe over three decades of service to children and families throughout King, Snohomish, Pierce, Kitsap and Mason counties, we'd like to thank everyone who has made this possible. Our founder, Karen Ridlon, whose imagination, courage and passion got us started and has sustained us along the way. Our thousands of amazing volunteers, especially our Core Volunteers, who take time out of their busy lives to prioritize helping kids. Our provider partners who are on the front lines every day making sure that kids and their families are surrounded with the supports they need. And, our board of directors, funders and dedicated staff! All working together we have gathered a community of support, caring and compassion that works to ensure that every child is safe, warm and nurtured. Thank you.

The EBC story with Karen Ridlon

“Thirty years later we are doing what I set out from my kitchen table. But I didn’t do it, not by myself.”

Eastside Baby Corner happened because of working together. “I brought together some people, they brought some people, and it grew from there,” said EBC Founder, Karen Ridlon.

It wasn’t long after Karen began collecting baby goods and distributing them through King County Public Health nurses and the food bank that she realized she needed more space. Karen persuaded Skip Rowley to provide a storage unit for free. Pallets went onto the floor of the 15x30 rollup unit, and the goods piled in. That was 1990. Rowley Properties has continued to provide a home base for EBC in Issaquah since then.

The next steps were to get a 501c(3) non-profit designation. Karen was counseled that it would take time and lawyers. Instead, she worked from a borrowed library book to learn how to become a 501c3. She found a local lawyer to file the request, pro bono, and in just 2½ weeks received EBC’s non-profit designation from the IRS in April of 1994. The same year, EBC advocated successfully for a new state law that protected volunteers involved in distributing donated children’s items to low income residents from liability. With sponsorship from State Representative Phil Dyer, the “Baby Corner Bill” (Substitute House Bill 2566) passed on March 21, 1994. In 1997, an expanded law was passed to include public health agencies among the distributors released from liability.

From the beginning, everyone at Eastside Baby Corner (EBC) did things a little differently. Volunteers did their very best to customize each order to meet a child’s needs but also their likes, dislikes, customs, and traditions. EBC didn’t—and doesn’t—just throw together goods and push them out to families. Volunteers

77% of our providers agree that receiving goods from EBC improve health outcomes for their clients.

93% of our providers confirmed that EBC helps create stronger bonds with their clients.

90% of our providers agreed that goods from EBC help their clients become better equipped to handle stressful situations.

became “personal shoppers” for each child, for each adult caregiver, for each expectant mom. “We are not here to just meet the needs of kids, but to honor the needs.” EBC’s mission was to address the inequities that can prevent children from reaching their own potential.

Over the years, thousands of people have donated and volunteered at an EBC Hub. Many have been “core volunteers.” These are the dedicated folks who take on a particular task or section as their own. They manage it, improve it, hit the weekly deadlines without fail, often purchasing missing items so all orders are filled. They have worked in cold, in heat, without a nearby bathroom or with sharing one with dozens of others. They stand on concrete or only lightly carpet floors repacking diapers, sorting through boxes of toys, matching socks, making bedding packages, looking for shoes, repairing bikes, making new beds from parts of old, and sorting clothes for hours on end. They have shopped for formula, food, diapers, and car seats, gone to garage sales and thrift stores, and carefully folded up every bag and cardboard box that could be re-used.

By the 2000s, tens of human service agencies, schools, and food banks were partnering with EBC to help children and families. It was time to make the changes necessary to ensure EBC would be here as long as children needed us. In 2008, a full board of directors was elected and the first employee hired. Today, EBC is in three locations in the central Puget Sound region. The staff of 19 support hundreds of volunteers and more than 60 agency partners.

These are the people Karen inspired. The joy of working together, for a shared purpose, for all our children permeates every EBC Hub. It shows in each bundle filled, every quilt made, every birthday gift bag done. Karen says, “There is tremendous joy in knowing that we’ve helped so many children over the years, children who with our help could find their own gifts to give to the world. EBC will continue to be here as long as we are needed.”
